A Remarkable Under-Price Offering

An unusual and lucky trade occurrence brings us Seventeen Hundred Pairs of Nottingham, Irish Point, Renaissance and Ruffled Muslin Curtains, most of which are worth a half more, and up to double the prices for which we offer them today. All are brand-new perfect goods in desirable patterns. Just the sorts most wanted for Summer furnishings. Of course, some of the lots are small; and, while there will be plenty for all who come today, best selection will be made early this morning.

The groups are as follows:

There are also small lots of Stores and Ruffled Net Curtains at prices proportionately low.

Men's Sack Suits at $15

We have always given a great deal of attention to Men's Sack Suits, at the popular price of $15. Fabrics, all-wool. Workmanship, thorough and satisfactory. This year they have taken on more style than ever before. And the assortment is the largest we have ever shown at this well-known figure. Thirty distinct patterns in the fancy materials, and a half-dozen different single and double-breasted models.

Fabrics include chevrons, worsteds, cassimeres, thibets and serges. Also black, blue and Oxford gray serges; and black and blue thibets and chevrons.

Our stock of Young Men's Suits, at $15, is just as comprehensive. All-wool fast-color blue serge suits are particularly favored by the young fellows just now. Of course, the gray mixtures are much demanded also. Both are in the height of style, and will delight well-dressed young men of 15 to 21 years.

Eight Hundred Walking Skirts At $3.25 and $4

Worsted and homespun skirts in light weights and Spring colorings are in tremendous demand at the present time. These are exactly the skirts offered in the two under-price groups here announced.

First is a lot of three hundred Skirts that have been selling in our stocks at $6 to $10. They are made of light-weight homespun and worsteds, in mixtures and plaids. Also a few in Panama cloth, in plain black, blue, brown and green. In circular gored and plaited styles, some finished with bias folds or strapings of the same material. Today at $4 each.

The other group is composed of five hundred Walking Skirts which we secured from a manufacturer who was closing out his Spring stock. They are made of light-weight worsteds, in checks and mixtures, in gored circular style, finished with bias folds; others gored with side plaited panels. The regular values are $5 and $6; today priced at $3.25 each.

We still have several hundred of the silk dresses which have been making such a furore this week and we received word from the manufacturer yesterday that three hundred more were on the way. They will probably be here early this morning. We have never had a merchandise offering that so delighted women. At $10.75 each.

POOL LETS A THIEF GO.

Assemblyman and Red Headed Woman Got Busy and Complaint Was Withdrawn.

Magistrate Pool, who ordered a woman locked up in the West Side court Monday because she didn't want to complain against a man who had insulted her on the street, changed his attitude toward complaints so suddenly yesterday that he allowed a self-confessed thief, charged with grand larceny, to go free after the complaining witness had been influenced by the prisoner's friends to withdraw the charge. The general custom of magistrates is to prevent grand larceny charges from being dropped in the police courts.

The case concerned a sleek young man who described himself as Harry B. Tucker, 23 years old, a photographer, of 107 West Eighty-eighth street. He was arrested Monday night on the complaint of Mrs. Julia H. Turner, of 119 West Seventy-first street, who told Detectives Brogan and Levins of the West Sixty-eighth street station house that some one had broken into her dresser while she was out Monday afternoon and had stolen a gold bracelet, a few dollars in pin set with pearls and a gold chain, all valued at $35. When the detectives learned that Tucker, who had occupied a furnished room in the house for three weeks, was there alone when the robbery occurred, they arrested him. They said he confessed his guilt and assisted the detectives in recovering the property. When Brogan took his prisoner to court yesterday morning he swore in his complaint that Tucker had confessed stealing the jewelry. Tucker signed the papers underneath the statement, "I am guilty." Just then a West Side Assemblyman, who has the freedom of the trial enclosure, was advised that he might get a case if he talked with Tucker. He did so, and quickly stepped up to the Magistrate's desk and said:

"My client wants to plead not guilty." "I told him his rights when I made out the papers," responded the clerk. "While the clerk was changing the plea a red haired woman, who appeared to be taking a keen interest in the prisoner, got inside the rail in some way and talked earnestly with Mrs. Turner, who had gone to court to make the complaint. Presently Mrs. Turner told the clerk that she guessed the jewelry wasn't worth more than $20. This reduction would make the prisoner's offence petit larceny. Then she said she had concluded not to press the charge because the jewelry had been returned."

Magistrate Pool, who had been waiting in his room for the papers to be made out, discharged the prisoner without comment on these representations and without further evidence.

Before she left the clerk's desk the red haired woman dived into her desk stocking and pulled out a five dollar bill, which she handed unobtrusively to the clerk. The clerk declined it with thanks and remarked after she had left:

"That was a very indiscreet thing to do."

Late Books, Sold By All Others at $1.08 or More, 98c

First Floor, Rear.

OTHER stores, modestly claiming to MATCH Macy prices—and some boldly claiming to UNDERSELL us—are persistently SILENT on the Book question, not because it involves Books alone, but EVERY OTHER LINE OF MERCHANDISE THEY SELL AND WE SELL.

While the saving on late Books may not average more than 10%, on other lines it is very much more. On high grade imported goods, for example, you frequently find Macy prices just HALF what others ask.
